Jewels Woman Makes Nets Hospital $5,000

SINGleness of purpose—the purpose being to aid the General Hospital of Monroe County—passed a milestone yesterday for Mrs. Sybil S. J. Michener, wife of C. Raymond Michener of Buck Hill Falls.

The milestone was presentation of a check to the hospital in the amount of $700, making a total of $5,000 Mrs. Michener has presented the hospital for development of a radium treatment system for patients of the institution.

"If there were just four or five more like Mrs. Michener, this institution would have few if any worries," said Harry J. Smith, superintendent of the hospital.

Sincere as Mr. Smith's statement was, it was somewhat of an understatement. Here's why:

Four years ago, Mrs. Michener, a talented artisan, decided to make costume jewelry, sell it and turn the proceeds over to General Hospital for what was then the beginning of its radium treatment program.

Since that time, this one-woman operation has averaged around 12 to 14 hours a day from May to the second week in January. That time has been devoted to days of making and selling costume jewelry to visitors to the Poconos region, as well as to year 'round residents.

Those days began, at times at 6:45 a.m. and concluded at 1:30 a.m. on jewelry making and selling. Mrs. Michener's sole complaint is that she has to take time out to go to Onawa Lodge in Mountain home and the Woodside in Canadensis to set up displays and sell the jewelry.

She feels the hospital's radium treatment program would become an even greater beneficiary if the sales angle—by some volunteer, of course—were taken from the previous time she needs to make jewelry.

In addition to her regular run of creations—with semi-precious stone decorations—Mrs. Michener has a custom-made trade which involves making styles and colors to fit your latest gown.

To date the monies provided by Mrs. Michener's labors have made possible $3,800 worth of radium and radium treatment for use at the hospital.

One of the early purchases, of course, was a lead protective device which makes administration of radium treatment the safest thing in the world. Radium needles, a supply of radium, and all sorts of auxiliary equipment required for sound radium treatment techniques have been added.

In the lobby of the General Hospital is a small, but sturdy plaque erected "in recognition of Sybil S. J. Michener and the great work she has done and is doing.

Hearings Arranged On Pleas For Federal Controls Over Polio Vaccine Distribution

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) of the House Banking Committee said today he would hold hearings "as soon as possible" on appeals for federal controls over distribution of the Salk polio vaccine.

Spence said a warm controversy is developing over whether the government should step in and decide who will get the vaccine first, or whether allocations should be left to private channels.

Four Powers Discuss Pact For Austria

VIENNA, Austria, May 2 (AP)—Ambassadors of the four powers occupying Austria talked 4½ hours today about concluding an Austrian independence treaty. Austrian Foreign Minister Leopold Figl emerged from the conference with the words: "The chances are good."

A communiqué said "notable progress was made." Participating were envoys from Britain, France, Russia and the United States and an Austrian delegation.

Informed sources reported U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr., won the first round of the conference.

Thompson was said to have persuaded the Russians that any delegation could discuss any of the treaty's 59 articles. Most of the articles have been agreed on in previous Big Four meetings, but the Western powers want several reviewed.

After 10 years of stalling, the Russians recently said they were willing to sign the long-delayed pact that would bring freedom to this occupied land and the withdrawal of the Big Four's 70,000 troops.

Proper Spacing Of Anti-Polio Shots Held Vital

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 2 (AP)—Dr. Jonas E. Salk said today proper spacing of anti-polio shots is vital if a child is to gain full protection against later attacks by polio virus.

The celebrated scientist told the American Society for Clinical Investigation that the presence of "measurable amounts" of virus-blocking antibodies in the bloodstream may not be enough to prevent paralysis. The child must also reach a "hyper-reactive" state that assures overwhelming production of antibodies whenever polio virus enter the body.

Dr. Salk said the series of three anti-polio shots he recommends cause the creation of antibodies first and the "hyper-reactive" state second.

He said this one-two response is best assured when the first two shots are spaced two to four weeks apart, with the third shot following seven to ten months later.

Stackup Occurs This Thursday

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 2 (AP)—If your lucky number is five, get set for Thursday. It ought to be a big day.

It will be the fifth day of the week and the fifth day of the month in the fifth month of the year. The year, of course, is Fifty-Five. That gives you 5-5-5-5-5.

The occasion is what Lennie Johnson, whose hobby is puzzling over calendars, calls a stackup. A stackup won't happen again until the year 2122.

Vice President Nixon, who recently toured the Caribbean, told the state executives that communism definitely is declining in the nations to the south. Harold E. Stassen, President Eisenhower's special assistant on disarmament, said Communist influence is receding in Europe although it is still a major problem in France and Italy.

Stassen said the major struggle from now on will be in Asia.

CIO, AFL Snagged
Over Name Change
WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—AFL and CIO leaders hit a snag today in merger negotiations over a name for the proposed single union organization.

They announced agreement on a new constitution to govern the proposed 15-million member union group except for one possibly important detail—that the new federation will be called.

George Meany, AFL president, said he expects "trouble" over the issue but quickly added that, "We've had trouble before and we've gotten over it."

Both Meany and CIO President Walter Reuther declined to say what names each side has in mind. It was reported, however, Meany and the AFL want to retain their name, while the CIO wants some change such as the "American Congress of Labor" indicative of a brand new organization.

Fairless Quits As Chairman Of U.S. Steel

HOBOKEN, N. J., May 2 (AP)—Benjamin F. Fairless stepped down as chairman of U.S. Steel Corp. today after 18 years of high executive posts in the world's biggest steel company and 42 years in the steel business.

He told the biggest stockholders' meeting in the company's history that he would reach his 65th birthday tomorrow and "under the retirement rule which prevails in our corporation, I must then step aside and surrender the responsibilities of my office to capable and younger hands."

More than 900 stockholders gathered in a public auditorium and the announcement brought a round of "ohs." Later the packed throng gave Fairless a standing ovation and sang, "Happy Birthday to You."

He then announced that a successor would be chosen at a meeting of the board of directors tomorrow. Fairless said he would remain as a director and as a member of the finance committee.

Fairless has served as board chairman since 1933. He was president of U.S. Steel from 1937 to 1952.

The son of a coal miner, Fairless began his steel career in 1913 and advanced rapidly in the industry.

In steel circles, speculation concerning his successor centered about the names of Roger M. Blough, vice chairman of the board and general counsel, and Clifford F. Hood, president of the corporation.

In his address to the stockholders, Fairless called the firm's present prospects "the brightest in its history."

"It is now evident," he said, "that a further expansion of the facilities will be imperative if the present demand for steel continues in the months ahead, as I hope and believe that it may."

Stockholders, as expected, adopted by a huge margin a proposal for a 2-for-1 stock split announced by the directors in January.

They also reelected six directors and voted down a stockholder proposal opposed by management that the "stagger system" of electing directors be abolished and that the full slate of directors be elected at each annual meeting for a term of one year. The present system is to elect 6 of the 18 directors each year for three-year terms.

It was announced that 24,988,022 shares of common and preferred stock were represented at the meeting, or 82.76 per cent of the total outstanding shares.

The stock split was approved by 82.75 per cent of the common and 79.93 per cent of the preferred stock. The stockholder resolution was defeated by 96.61 per cent against 3.3 per cent.

Distribution Of Patronage Is Advocated

HARRISBURG, May 2 (AP)—William S. Livengood Jr., who will retire tomorrow as secretary of internal affairs, told a testimonial dinner in his honor tonight that "great waste and bickering" would result if Pennsylvania's governor were allowed to succeed himself in office.

"The very thought of such a possibility should cause any student of government to shake in his boots," Livengood said in an address prepared for delivery at the dinner. Instead, the secretary urged that "patronage power" held by the governor be cut down by returning certain powers to the offices of state treasurer, auditor general and internal affairs secretary.

Livengood, who will leave the $15,000-a-year post he has held for 16 years with the inauguration tomorrow of Miss Genevieve Blatt, added:

"We would, by such a program (restoring powers to the three offices) take away from the governor much of the patronage which he presently has, and by which he may force his will upon the people."

His statements were aimed at a House-passed bill now in Senate committee calling for a constitutional amendment to allow the governor of Pennsylvania to succeed himself in office.

Livengood described the office of governor in Pennsylvania as one "carrying too much power for one man to wield."

He said he agreed with the late Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh, a former Pennsylvania governor, when the latter said:

"If the governor were permitted to succeed himself, and his power to remain as it is or become greater, he could by the use of patronage practically dictate his renomination and influence the Legislature far beyond that which is good for either government or the people."

The secretary said the "actual administrative authority is altogether too far from the people who pay the bill."

"Too much of the actual operation of our government," he said, "is invisible to the people." The dinner was sponsored by employees of the department which Livengood headed for four terms under Republican administration.

Grand Jury Gets Involuntary Manslaughter Case Today

Nine Cases Scheduled To Be Presented

NINE CASES will be presented to the Grand Jury at 10 a.m. today in Monroe County Court.

Cases to be presented include a charge of involuntary manslaughter, three burglary charges, a charge of loitering and prowling and an aggravated assault and battery charge.

The involuntary manslaughter charge, against Edward L. Kotarski, 36 of 244 W. Main St., Nanticoke, grows out of the Jan. 7 this year of Walter E. Waltz, 75 of Blakeslee.

Waltz died in Monroe County General Hospital of injuries suffered when he was hit by Kotarski's car on Route 115 in front of his home at Blakeslee.

Police reported at the time of the death that Kotarski was going north on Route 115, saw the elderly man start across the highway, Kotarski put on his brakes, his car skidded and hit Waltz sideways, police said.

Pfc. Frederick J. Murdock, Fern Ridge State police sub-station, is the prosecutor. Waltz was struck at 10:15 a.m. died at 1:15 p.m. in the hospital, the same day.

Involved in the burglary cases are two Easton RD1 young men—Nicholas Caserio, 19 and Robert V. Anderson, 20. Caserio and Anderson are neighbors. They are charged with burglarizing the Elmer DeHaven-Amos Smith service station at Ninth and Main in Stroudsburg and the Bernie Clemens station at W. Broad St. and N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg on Feb. 25.

Prosecutors are Travis Seese, East Stroudsburg Borough Police and John B. Tretheway, Stroudsburg Borough Police.

Paul G. Turner, 18 of 114 Lenox Ave., East Stroudsburg is charged with loitering and prowling at night. Seese is the prosecutor.

Turner was arrested on March 8 by East Stroudsburg borough police. Police had received several complaints of someone "peeking in windows" in the Berwick Heights Road area.

The charge against Turner was one of four left open for a plea of guilty yesterday in court but no plea was entered.

District Attorney Elmer Christine said officials are awaiting the outcome of a medical and mental examination of the youth.

The charge of aggravated assault and battery is lodged against Kenneth A. Meixell, East Stroudsburg by Paul T. Gallo, Stroudsburg. It grew out of an argument on Feb. 20 involving the two men.

A charge of drunken driving against Orville Orlick, Portland, will be given to the jury. James Smith, East Stroudsburg borough policeman, is the prosecutor. Orlick was arrested on the charge last Oct. 13 by borough police.

Also slated to be given to the Grand Jury are two F and B cases.

Three Drivers Plead Guilty

THREE GUILTY pleas were entered to charges of motor vehicle law violations yesterday before Judge Clarence Bodie.

The judge levied fines and costs in the following cases: John Mesko, Ashley, Pa. was fined $300 and ordered to pay costs of prosecution on a drunken driving charge brought by State Trooper Paul C. Cotter, Wyoming barracks.

Lynn B. Price, Cresco, entered a guilty plea to a charge of driving while under license suspension. He was fined $100, ordered to pay costs and placed on probation for six months.

James P. Campbell, Buck Hill Falls, was ordered to pay $300 fine and costs for drunken driving. Mount Pocono State Trooper Clement Heist was prosecutor.

Postponements Cut Attendance For Atom Blast

SURVIVAL CITY, Nev., May 2 (AP)—The multitude which flocked here to see an atomic Civil Defense-military test was melting away fast tonight.

Volunteer Aid Needed To Put Park In Shape

DELAWARE WATER GAP—Workers will be needed Saturday to make Community Park ready for the arrival of new playground equipment.

Harold Lightner, chairman of the park committee, has issued a call for all men of the area to turn out on that day with picks, shovels, rakes, etc.

The new equipment is expected to arrive late this week and place must be made ready for it. The work will be continued throughout the day, weather permitting, in order to get the park ready for use.

All men interested in doing their part to aid in the park program are asked to contact Lightner during the week. All others may do so by appearing at the park on Saturday ready for work.

Court Issues Non-Support Case Orders

FIVE non-support cases were heard yesterday in Monroe County Court.

Judge Clarence Bodie ruled on the following cases: Vernon L. White, Saylorsburg, was ordered to pay $8 per week for the support of a minor child. Prosecutrix was Ada M. White, Stroudsburg RD2.

Paul Lambert, Stroudsburg, was ordered to pay $20 per week for support of his wife, Nina A. Lambert, East Stroudsburg, prosecutrix, and two children.

Harold Snider, East Stroudsburg, was ordered to pay $8 each week beginning in May and $10 a week beginning in June for support of his wife, Virginia Snider, same borough.

Mitchell A. Young, Saylorsburg was ordered to pay $12.50 per week for support of his wife and child. Prosecution was brought by Marguerite A. Young, same address.

Reduction of a 1947 court order setting down prescribed payment by Royal Klinker, East Stroudsburg for support of three children was granted by Judge Bodie. Payment was reduced from $15 weekly to $7.50 per week in the ruling.

Testimony showed that only one child was still in need of support of the original group of three. The hearing was on a petition to show cause for amendment of the original order with Mabel McKay as prosecutrix.

Ruby Goldstein Addresses 250 Lions Of Region Two

STROUDSBURG LIONS played host to a Region Two rally and heard a program filled with close clinches and close harmony last night. Main speaker at the meeting was Ruby Goldstein, world-famous boxing referee. An East Bangor Lions Club quartet provided the close harmony.

Goldstein's talk was informal, authentic and humorous. The referee told a long string of anecdotes dating from his early career as a fighter to stories of modern-day ring battles told from the ref's standpoint.

This third-man-in-the-ring view drew a series of questions from members of the audience when Goldstein finished his talk.

More than 250 persons attended the meeting. Walter Hicks, deputy district governor, presided at the meeting. Zone chairmen were introduced. The chairmen then presented the presidents of the various regional clubs.

Sidney Effross, Lions International counselor, Portland, was toastmaster for the meeting.

Scott Bill Introduced

HARRISBURG — Sen. William Z. Scott (R-Monroe, Carbon, Pike, Wayne) is sponsoring a new Senate bill to authorize school districts to enter into contracts with private business firms for the construction of swimming pools and bath houses.

A current bill in the Senate with bipartisan sponsorship is to bar discrimination in selection of students for educational institutions chartered by the Commonwealth.

This measure would prohibit any discriminatory practices in schools and colleges based upon race, color, religion or natural origin. Institutions supported by religious organizations would be permitted to select students from their own group.

The legislation would establish a Pennsylvania fair educational opportunities commission in the Department of Public Instruction to enforce the provision.

Other new bills are to limit the rate of per capita tax levied by all school districts except Philadelphia to 10 dollars per year, require votes by school directors for naming county superintendents to be made by casting a secret ballot rather than by having each director rise and announce his vote, and to amend the Constitution to permit a graduate income tax.

Speeding Charge Against Taylor Physician Dismissed In Monroe County Court

DR. BENJAMIN KAUFMAN, Taylor, was ruled "not guilty" of a speeding charge yesterday by Judge Clarence Bodie in Monroe County Court.

Kaufman was prosecuted by Pfc. Homer Jones, Mount Pocono State police. The physician was charged with speeding on Route 611 near Mount Pocono last Oct. 9.

Driver Posts $500 Bond For Court Hearing

AN EAST STROUDSBURG man was released on $500 bail for court when he was arraigned on a drunken driving charge at a hearing held by Justice of the Peace Herbert G. Bonser last night.

Paul M. Benson, 181 N. Courtland Street, was arrested Saturday at 5 p.m. following a near accident at the intersection of Ananion and S. Courtland Sts.

The arrest was made by Travis Seese, assistant police chief, after a doctor's examination showed the driver to be under the influence of intoxicating liquor, according to Bonser. He will appear at the next session of county court.

The peace justice said Benson cut around and passed another car on the right side and "drove recklessly into a service station almost sideswiping one of the gas pumps before stopping."

Dog Owner Fined On Two Counts

RICHARD Dishman, 225 Washington St., East Stroudsburg paid fines and costs totaling $31 after being found guilty of two violations of the borough dog ordinance in a hearing before Justice of the Peace Herbert G. Bonser yesterday.

Dishman was charged with permitting his dog to run at large. The law, established last Feb. 1, stresses that dogs cannot be out on public streets or highways unless on a leash and that they must be accompanied by the owner or some other responsible person.

Bonser said the police department had received numerous complaints about the Dishman dog and that the owner had been notified periodically since April 15 about the new dog law.

Hesley Decker, 237 Washington St., and Travis Seese, assistant police chief, were the prosecutors, Bonser reported.

The peace justice issued the warning that all owners of dogs running at large will be brought in by police and said all violators will be subject to fines.

"There have been too many dogs running loose here," stated Bonser. "There is either going to be a big shooting day or a big paying day," he concluded, as further indication of the borough's plan to uphold the ordinance.

Secrecy Binge

The people's right to know is taking a beating in Washington these days.

A situation already bad is becoming worse.

Now Defense Secretary Wilson, widely criticized for his seemingly rigid clamp on information, has appointed an official with restrictive ideas as top public relations man for the Armed Forces.

Even the Governments' Salk polio vaccine conference, of vast public interest, was held in secrecy last week, for reasons nobody has bothered to explain.

And now there are reports that congressional committees are aping the executive branches of the Government with more and more secret meetings.

It is the public's business they're hiding, and the public has a right to know the complete reasons—if any—for this dangerous bureaucratic hush-hush.

The Trade Battle

The reciprocal trade program, which has been the cornerstone of our foreign trade policy for more than 20 years, is in grave danger.

Economic interests which believe themselves to be in jeopardy from foreign competition have been united into one of the most formidable lobbies Congress has seen in modern times.

This lobby almost persuaded the House of Representatives, and is trying now to persuade the Senate, that higher tariffs, import quotas and various other trade barriers would be in the national interest.

Its strategy apparently is to permit approval of extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act itself—as President Eisenhower has asked Congress to do—but to cripple it with a variety of amendments that would leave it little more than a hollow statement of good intentions.

International trade, like trade in any community, fluctuates in response to various factors. Some nations which were rav-

They believed that to be true up to Sunday, April 24, when Admiral Arthur W. As a matter of fact, the initial rejection of Chou En-lai's invitation to talk on a Saturday, which was nullified on the following Tuesday, was in conformity with the spirit, if not the letter, of such an agreement.

To the Nationalists, therefore, the change of attitude between Saturday and Tuesday is in the nature of a double cross—"walk the garden path," as the Chinese say it—and they are blaming it, as usual, on the British, by which they mean that the constant necessity for adjusting American to British policy, or to put it differently, the readjustments of American and British

This can cost the Democrats the New York City window sill geranium vote which is solid and big. There is also the hollyhock, gladioli, nasturtium, dahlia and petunia vote to be considered. cine conference, of vast public interest, was held in secrecy last week, for reasons nobody has bothered to explain.

And now there are reports that congressional committees are aping the executive branches of the Government with more and more secret meetings.

It is the public's business they're hiding, and the public has a right to know the complete reasons—if any—for this dangerous bureaucratic hush-hush.

In fact there is great demand for American goods of all kinds, but a chronic shortage—in many of these markets—of the dollars to pay for them.

And that is the nub of the issue. We cannot sell more unless we buy more. We cannot sell even as much as we are selling now, of the products of our farms and factories, if the high-tariff lobby succeeds in persuading Congress to erect more barriers against foreign goods.

Under the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act we have made great progress toward a healthy volume of foreign trade. The national interest demands that it be continued in the form President Eisenhower has asked. Surely the American people have confidence in his ability to administer it wisely.

British Autogardner Looks Like New Boon To Mankind

At the British Industries Fair, which is going on this week, an amazingly versatile machine is being shown.

The "Autogardener," they call it, and the name fits pretty well if what the British Information Services say is true. This device "ploughs, hoes, cuts grass or undergrowth, trims and cuts hedges, sprays paint or insecticide, pumps tires, washes cars, empties and fills ponds, and tackles a variety of other back-breaking jobs." It runs six hours on a gallon of gas.

Now, that sounds like something that would do me a lot of good. I never have been much of a gardener or yard man but always thought I'd like to be.

This desire becomes steadily more intense as I grow older and become more and more conscious of how ratty the premises look and what a low opinion of us they undoubtedly give the neighbors. Advancing age also makes a person increasingly appreciative of the simpler pleasures—like soaking up sunshine, breathing fresh air, puttering in the soil and pampering petunias.

The one main reason I have shied away from activity of this sort is that plowing, hoeing, cutting grass and undergrowth, trimming hedges, spraying paint and insecticide, pumping tires, washing cars, emptying and filling ponds, and the like always struck me as being uncommonly hard work. I have sampled most of these chores sufficiently to have a pretty good idea of what they're like.

But I admire neatness as much as anybody and would like nothing better than to enjoy it as a constant feature of my environment if only it weren't so hard on the back. Also yard work gives me blisters.

A thing like this ingenious machine the British have rigged up sounds like the perfect answer to those objections.

What could be more satisfying than to sit on the porch with a cool glass of lemonade on a soft summer day and watch an economical little robot busily plowing, hoeing, cutting the grass, trimming the hedges, spraying bug-killer, pumping tires, emptying the pond and whatnot?

Not only would this be easy on the back but it also should be healthfully stimulating to the mind and imagination. Watching that mechanical jack-of-all-trades knock itself out almost certainly would set a fellow to thinking up additional chores it might be able to do.

Anybody knows that there is hardly any pastime more genuinely pleasant than sitting in a comfortable chair figuring out work for somebody else to do. Of course the fact that the somebody else was only an inanimate machine, incapable of smoldering resentment, might take part of the kick out of it. But only part.

However, I'm not letting myself be carried away by enthusiasm for this Autogardener until I know more about it. It can hardly be perfect. Probably somebody has to turn the thing on and off.

Try and Stop Me

There's a famous restaurant chain that boasts of twenty-eight different flavors of ice cream on its menu—but the waitresses often take a dim view of this feature. Harvey Campbell, of Detroit, for instance, once demanded, "Before I order dessert, I'd just like for you to rattle off those twenty-eight flavors for me."

"Nothing doing," retorted the waitress sharply. "I know gents like you. After I recited all of 'em you'd decide on chocolate or vanilla. Now which do you want?"

Robert S. Allen Reports

Nixon's Foreign Travels Have Had Major Results

Washington, May 3: Vice President Richard Nixon's foreign travels have had striking results.

As a consequence of his first-hand observations in many lands around the globe, the Californian has become an ardent advocate of a prominent Democratic program and he wants Congress to vote a lot more money for foreign spending than is in the President's budget.

The Democratic program is the foreign student exchange law fathered by Senator J. William Fulbright, Ark. Nixon is enthusiastically hailing it as "indispensable... the most effective U. S. activity in the foreign field."

The additional foreign expenditures he favors total $86,250,000 as follows:

$75,000,000 above the $5,000,000 proposed by the President for the Pan-American Highway; $10,000,000 more than the House has voted for Fulbright's exchange program; $1,000,000 increase in the building fund for U. S. embassies throughout the world; and $250,000 the State Department is seeking for entertainment purposes.

The Vice President, a vigorous champion of economy, opposed State Department and other foreign spending proposals when he was a member of the Senate and House.

But at a private meeting with Senate Appropriations Committee men, Nixon disclosed that his worldwide travels have strongly influenced his views. He stressed particularly the Fulbright measure and the need to provide American diplomats with adequate entertainment funds.

Nixon waxed eloquent on both these matters, to the obvious surprise of the Republican and Democratic senators.

In fact, they were surprised by his request to confer with them. It was the first time he had asked to appear before this powerful Committee. It is not unprecedented for a Vice President to do that, but it's rare. The traditional practice is for Vice Presidents to keep aloof from legislative affairs, particularly those involving the budget.

What He Said — Nixon frankly acknowledged that his foreign travels have changed his mind about various things.

"I make these recommendations," he told the intently interested Committee men, "as a direct result of my experience and observations while visiting countries in Asia and, recently, in the Caribbean area."

The Vice President stressed America's key role in world affairs and the urgent necessity of maintaining the standards required by this leadership. That's why the Fulbright program is so important, and why U. S. diplomats should not be compelled to spend their own money to maintain the country's prestige.

Providing such funds, remarked Nixon sharply, is not coddling "State Department cookie-pushers." The $700,000 requested for this purpose should be approved.

"As I understand it," said Senator Leverett Saltonstall (R., Mass.), "you are urging us to restore the $250,000 which the House cut out of this item."

"Yes, I am," replied Nixon. "I think our ambassadors abroad should get the full $700,000 of these so-called entertainment allowances. I know that this matter has been a favorite whipping boy of Congress. It's easy to argue that big receptions and white-tie dinners should be reduced and that the cookie-pushers of the State Department should not be given funds for such entertainment. But I want to assure you that is not fair either to our ambassadors or our country."

"Let me give you an example of what I mean. The government of one of the countries we visited staged a very elaborate dinner for Mrs. Nixon and myself. Of course, our embassy had to reciprocate on a comparable basis. And to do that, our ambassador had to go into his own pocket for this extra entertainment. That is not right. The people who serve our country abroad should not have to put up their own money for activities involving the prestige of our country."

"We are the major world power today, and our diplomats have to maintain standards that were not required of us a few years ago. They are constantly called upon to deal with special burdens, and this modest additional amount for entertainment allowances is entirely proper and justified."

Senator Harley Kilgore (D., W. Va.) asked what Russia is doing about foreign visitors.

"I understand the Soviet has brought over ten times as many South Americans as we have," said Kilgore.

"I don't have the exact figures," declared Nixon, "but I wouldn't be surprised that your information is correct. When I was in Guatemala several months ago I learned that virtually all the key people of that country had been to Russia at one time or another as students. It is impossible to exaggerate the importance of our exchange program. If I had to pick one program in the foreign field that was the most effective, the one that I consider indispensable, this is it."

"The significant thing we must bear in mind regarding the countries of Asia, Africa and Latin America is that many of them only recently acquired their independence from colonial status, and in many of them you will find that a few leaders dictate the policies of these countries. That is why it is far more important to influence those leaders than it is to affect the masses of the people."

Devout Moslem women in East Pakistan believe turtles help them bear children. North of Chittagong a strange shrine, the Temple of the Turtles, houses hundreds of enormous specimens in a stagnant pool. Women buy raw meat to feed the turtles. Some rub the backs of the big creatures, then pass their hands across their own foreheads in the belief that this ritual helps them achieve motherhood.

Small Milk Dealers Hit By New Law

—by H. G. Heller

Small milk dealers may be forced to install expensive laboratory equipment under the terms of a proposed amendment to the state milk code.

The measure, introduced by Reps. E. J. Farnbaugh and Louis Rovaneck, both Cambria County Democrats, and Carl H. Garlock (D-Fulton), would require milk testers to make their butterfat examinations on the premises where they are taken.

The butterfat test is the backbone of the state's milk pricing system.

The net effect of this would be to push small dealers—those handling less than 30 milk producers' output—to take steps to install proper milk testing equipment in their plants.

Present practice is for smaller dealers to mail or ship milk samples to centrally located laboratories for testing. Under the new bill, this would not be allowed.

The measure also provides that the butterfat tests must be made within five days after the end of the period for which samples are collected. Samples are collected from each farmer's production each day. On the 25th and 26th day of each month the collected samples are tested together.

The butterfat content of the samples determine what price the producers will receive for their output.

The dairymen receive a nickel more per hundredweight (46 1/4 quarts) for every 10th of a percentage point of butterfat their milk contains over four per cent. They receive a nickel less for similar fraction below four per cent.

The Milk Commission reported more than 45,000 milk tests are made twice each month. In the case of the big dealers the tests are made by their own laboratories on their own premises.

Many farm observers reported that the new measure, however, would create a serious problem for the small dealers who in some cases now haul milk samples for 50 miles for testing.

Because of the delicate nature and quantity of testing equipment needed it would probably be impractical for testers to use portable equipment.

Among apparatus needed for testing milk are centrifuges, hot water baths, a variety of test tubes and retorts and sulphuric acid.

Chief complaint now—and probably the reason behind the new bill—is one brought by farmers that the samples are spoiled when they get to the testers because the dealers fail to refrigerate them or otherwise preserve them properly.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

The boys may have thought they were settling sort of a record, going swimming on the first of May. (Well, we'll call it swimming, at least they got wet and paddled a few frozen strokes.)

However, their bravado went all in vain. That very same day Mrs. Tetlow and her two granddaughters AND her sister with a brace on her back, all went swimming, too, and for about 20 minutes — though not, I assure you, voluntarily.

However, even before that Barbara Hill and Judy Jordan had taken the plunge, clothes and all, in the Fifth Street pond. Oh, what it is to be young. Think I'd rather be swimming myself than worrying about the kids.

No, I'll take that back. I'd rather worry about them than face plunging into water with the ice still in it, more or less. However, we do what we must. Just the same, a few rainy days would no doubt dampen this enthusiasm for swimming among the younger fry.

You ever noticed that the very ones who go swimming first thing in the season are the same ones who want to be driven to school when a nice gentle rain is falling? However, I'll settle for people any day, inconsistent or not.

Playhouse Opening Set For June 9

MOUNTAINHOME — Pocono Playhouse opens its season on June 9 with Donald Cook starring in "The King of Hearts".

Rosena Stevens, owner-manager of the Summer theater, said this week that the Playhouse will begin its season on Thursday, June 9 to accommodate officials attending the State Commissioners' Convention at Buck Hill Falls.

"King of Hearts" will continue its run at the Playhouse through Saturday, June 18, she said. Cook will appear in the role he originated in last year's Broadway production of the work.

The play was one of the comedy successes of the 1954 New York season, opening on April 1, 1954 and running for more than a year. Donald Cook is one of the best-known light comedy performers on the stage today.

A veteran of super-sophisticated roles in Hollywood he has starred on Broadway in "Skyline" with the late Gertrude Lawrence and "The Moon Is Blue", F. Hugh Herbert's three-character comedy with Barbara Bel Geddes.

Cook is perhaps most remembered for a three-year non-stop marathon engagement in Noel Coward's "Private Lives", a comedy which he undertook with the considerable assistance of Tallulah Bankhead. Cook and Tallulah have played "Private Lives" in nearly every city, town and hamlet in the U. S.

Other productions of the Playhouse schedule for the 1955 season will include "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial", Herman Wouk's dramatization of his best-selling novel, "The Caine Mutiny"; "Oh Men, Oh Women" by Edward Chodorov; "Wedding Breakfast", a comedy; "Picnic" by William Inge, the 1954 Pulitzer Prize-winning play and "The Rainmaker" by N. Richard Nash.

Negotiations are now going on, Mrs. Stevens said, to star John Hodiak in "Court Martial" in the role he originated on Broadway. If these talks fall through, Jeffrey Lynn may play the role, she said. Also in the talking stage is the possibility that Helen Hayes may appear on the local Playhouse stage in a series of characterizations from her past successes.

Among these would be selections from "Mary, Queen of Scots" by Maxwell Anderson; scenes from "Victoria Regina" and — Miss Hayes says — a delineation of Lady Macbeth.

Whether Miss Hayes appears at Pocono Playhouse will depend, in large part, on audience reception to her series of characterizations in the Midwest where the program will be tried out earlier this Summer.

Stock Prices Irregular In Narrow Range

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP) — The stock market was highly irregular today with prices swinging sluggishly.

Changes in individual issues sometimes went as far as 4 points either way in key sections, but most gains and losses were well within a 2-point range.

Most of the day prices pointed higher, but shortly before the close there was a moderate selloff in aircrafts and some motors and railroads.

The emphasis today was on individual issues rather than group movements. The market as a whole ended unchanged on average but there were more losers than gainers in the list.

Brokers pointed out that the action of today's market was in line with the indecisive markets of last week when the Associated Press average of 60 stocks remained unchanged.

The average today also was unchanged at $16.80. The industrial component was up 20 cents while the rails were down 20 cents and utilities were unchanged.

The lower trend of the market was underlined by the fact that 528 issues declined while 437 advanced. Seventy issues hit new highs and 24 touched new lows for the year.

Volume was moderate at 2,225,000 shares as compared with 2,230,000 shares Friday.

The American was mixed on volume of 730,000 shares as compared with 600,000 shares traded Friday.

The bond market was firm, U. S. government issues in the over the counter market were steady.

Ministerium Endorses Current Film

THE MONROE COUNTY Ministerial Association, an organization comprising all Protestant ministers in Monroe County, was invited to attend a preview of a movie last week. The picture was, "A Man Called Peter."

The film is based on the life of Peter Marshall, Presbyterian minister and chaplain of the United States Senate, as told in the best-selling book of the same name and written by his wife.

The ministers felt that here was a motion picture to inspire the lives of young people and give the older folks a new sense of God's will for each and every life. The ministers also felt that the picture should be seen by as many Christian people as possible.

"A Man Called Peter" will be shown at the Sherman Theater in Stroudsburg starting today and ending Saturday.

Police Kill Desperado; Second Shot

CANTON, N. Y., May 2 (P)—Patrick Brooks, 26, surrendered at the St. Lawrence County sheriff's office tonight, ending a manhunt that had led to the killing of one desperate jailbreaker and the wounding of a second.

HOPKINTON, N. Y., May 2 (P)—Desperado Frank (The Hook) Talarico, haunted by fear of a lifetime behind bars, defied a ring of state police rifles today and died in a volley of shots that wounded a fellow fugitive.

The 44-year-old Talarico, from Utica, was cut down as he and Ralph LaShomb, 29, of Potsdam, awoke under a pine tree to face nine rifles held by troopers. LaShomb was taken to Potsdam General Hospital, where his right leg was amputated. Attaches said he was expected to survive.

Troopers still sought Patrick Brooks, 26-year-old Indian from Gabriels, another jailbreaker who was with Talarico and LaShomb. Whether Brooks had a gun was not known.

Talarico and LaShomb were found asleep in a sun-drenched clearing on a farm a few miles west of here. Troopers formed a semicircle around them and shouted.

The pair scrambled awake. "Shoot," Talarico commanded LaShomb. Police rifles cracked first. Talarico died with his shoes off. He had three felony convictions against him. A fourth meant life.

LaShomb's leg was fractured by the police fire. Last Wednesday, LaShomb slugged the jailer at the St. Lawrence County jail in Canton, near this northern New York farm community. He stole two revolvers and freed three other prisoners.

One, Leon Caskinette, 24, of Raymondville, was captured last Friday. It was then that the first shots shattered the valley peace. In fleeing, LaShomb, Talarico and Brooks left behind a wounded trooper.

After today's shooting, LaShomb told police that Brooks had been with them shortly before. State Police Supt. Francis S. McGarvey said in Albany, however, that there was a possibility Brooks had been killed by his companions. McGarvey characterized Talarico and LaShomb as the "bad men" of the group.

The two revolvers stolen from the jail were recovered. Talarico was carrying a .38 caliber police special and LaShomb had a powerful .307 Magnum.

State police said that Brooks might have picked up another

Miss Blatt's Inauguration Slated Today

HARRISBURG, May 2 (P)—Miss Genevieve Blatt will be inaugurated secretary of internal affairs at a round of ceremonies tomorrow—the first woman to hold elective statewide office in Pennsylvania's history.

The studious Pittsburgh woman, prominent for years in Democratic affairs, displayed little enthusiasm for the fanfare on the eve of her inauguration.

"I'm not fond of all this excitement. I wish it were Wednesday," she told a reporter. "I would just as soon move into office without any excitement and begin my service to the public."

While women for the last quarter of a century have held appointive offices as members of the governor's cabinet, Miss Blatt is the first woman to be elected to statewide office by the voters.

Some 2,000 persons, including Gov. George M. Leader, members of his cabinet and other high administration officials, are expected to crowd the forum in the education building to witness Miss Blatt's inauguration.

The governor interrupted a week long stay at Washington to participate in the ceremony. He will return to Washington Tuesday night.

Miss Blatt succeeds William S. Livingston Jr., who held the $15,000 post for four consecutive terms under Republican administrations.

Brushing aside the honors connected with her successful bid for the office, Miss Blatt described her feeling as simply "a good feeling at being given an opportunity to serve the public."

She said she is "anxious to undertake" the service.

In addition to the formal inauguration ceremony, Miss Blatt will be honored at a $100-a-plate Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner with Gov. Leader the principal speaker.

An estimated 3,000 Democrats from throughout the state are scheduled to attend the dinner. Paul Butler, Democratic national chairman, also will appear.

After the swearing in ceremony by Judge Anne N. Alpern, of the Allegheny County Court, the new secretary will be feted at a luncheon of the Pennsylvania Federation of Democratic Women. She will be a guest at a tea given in the executive mansion by Mrs. Leader for members of the Federation.

The incoming secretary's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Blatt, Pittsburgh, will witness the inauguration. Also on hand will be Miss Blatt's brother, Joseph of Pittsburgh, and her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCloskey, of Washington, D. C., and their four children.

Miss Blatt, who served since 1948 as secretary of the Democratic State Committee, defeated Mrs. Cayenne M. Dixon, Republican candidate for the post in the general election last November.

OFFICERS WILL be elected for the coming year at the annual meeting of the Poplar Valley Cemetery Association next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Poplar Valley School.

Plot owners and others interested in the cemetery are asked to attend. Charles Marsh is the president and Anne Heeter, secretary.

Son Of Former Lithuanian Premier Feels Voice Of America Penetrates Iron Curtains

WASHINGTON, May 2 (P)—The trouble with trying to get any message through to the Russian people, the tall, military looking man was saying, is that they're guarded by not one, but two, Iron Curtains.

And yet, as program editor for the Russian unit of the U.S. radio in Munich, it's Kazys V. Grinius' job to try to reach them, somehow, every day.

"You see," he said, "usually the Iron Curtain is looked upon as something to cut them off from all knowledge of what we are doing. Well, that is true.

"But also there is another Iron Curtain, to cut them off from knowing what the Soviet government really is doing. We try to show the Russian people what their government has done to religious groups, such as the Jews, and what happened in Poland.

"The official line is always the same, that the Poles, and other countries, chose communism freely. We tell them the truth."

Grinius, son of a longtime prime minister of Lithuania, was a colonel in the Lithuanian army. He fled to this country in 1941, and about all he brought with him was the ability to speak five languages, none of them English.

He caught on with a group handling Lithuanian problems in this country. "Did you know that the largest Lithuanian city in the world is not in Lithuania?" he asked. "No, it's Chicago."

Five years ago he went with the Voice of America in New York, and gradually worked his way up. Now he's on leave, and he and his wife expect to get their first long look at the West coast of their adopted country, plus some time visiting their son, who is working for a Ph. D. degree at Oberlin College in Ohio.

"My son is in music, the piano," he said. "He's pretty good. He is

Coast Guard Pulls Seasick Crewmen Off Leaking Raft

MONTEREY, Calif., May 2 (P)—The Coast Guard, bucking waves 10 feet high in a black, predawn search, today pulled a reluctant skipper and four seasick crewmen off a leaking raft—only 56 miles along the 2,400 they had hoped to drift to Hawaii.

While the wind howled and the sea tossed, the raft's skipper, Devere Baker, a Mormon Church elder, pleaded in vain by radio for the Coast Guard to take the raft in tow so he could make a third try.

The minute he got ashore, Baker, who wants to prove a fishing boat B.C., cast about for a lead of 600 to go after his wandering derelict, Lehi II.

But the Coast Guard took a dim view, pointing out that both the Lehi I last year in a five-day voyage and the Lehi II in three days never went anywhere except south along the coast.

Coast Guard Capt. Donald E. McKay said that landlubber Baker "just doesn't understand the sea" and twice has tried a "foolhardy" trip to find out what the Coast Guard has known all along: There

U.S. Must Act Cautiously In Viet Nam

By J. M. Roberts
Associated Press News Analyst

The United States has seldom been in a situation where she needed to walk more softly than in Viet Nam today.

It's not merely that she has become involved in a multiple-sided family fight. That's bad enough, especially when it deeply involves relations with France.

There is the additional danger that, even though she is backing the side of independence, she will appear to other asiatic peoples as replacing France in the colonial picture. This is something Washington has studiously sought to avoid.

That France is losing the political battle for Indochina seems just as obvious as her loss of the military battle last year. But she has been fighting hard to do what the British did when India finally gained her independence. That is to preserve her commercial interests, in Communist-held as well as in non-Communist territory.

One of France's great handicaps in this stems from the fact she has been forced to accept American economic aid for South Viet Nam, which gives the country dollars to pay for American imports when reduction in expenditures by the French armed forces has reduced the supply of francs.

Ideology also plays an important part in the split. The United States hopes to see a stable government in Viet Nam before next year's voting when it is feared the Vietnamese Communists might take over the whole country.

Americans have never fallen for the French effort to present Chief of State Bao Dai, the former emperor, as a symbol of loyalty for all Viet Nam. He has always looked like a playboy puppet through whom the French sought to maintain their control while making noises about extension of independence.

Now there is armed rebellion against the established government of Premier Diem, appointed by the French, through Bao Dai, at American urging. The chief rebel force is led by unsavory characters who appear to have been connected with Bao Dai, or at least shielded by him, as they organized vice and rackets. The sources of the money to support his lavish life on the French Riviera, including heavy play at the gambling casinos, has never been clarified.

Diem, on the other hand, has the reputation of an honest man, nationalistic, but dead set against the Communists in whom many Indo-Chinese Nationalists have placed their faith.

If Diem wins his fight, as now seems possible after a very shaky period, the United States will take on increasing stature in Southeast Asian affairs, and by that very token the tightrope she must walk will become more slippery.
